THE AGENDA

MON 2
13:45 - 16:00

DAY 1: OPENING of ANNUAL GLOBAL CCCM MEETING

The opening session of this year's Annual Global CCCM Meeting will take participants through what is to be expected over the coming 2 weeks. It will also provide opportunities for participants to hear the latest of what the global CCCM Cluster has been up to over the past year, get updates from the global working groups as well as catching up with what is happening in the clusters around the world. The session will be opened by the Cluster Lead Agencies (IOM and UNHCR) and take a moment to also look back at the past 15 years of IASC Cluster Approach.

TUE 3
13:45 - 16:00

DAY 2: LOCALIZATION in CCCM OPERATIONS and PREPAREDNESS

As the roles of humanitarian actors and local authorities in crisis response continue to evolve, application of CCCM framework has also been evolving and adapting to suite the need, capacities and mandate of stakeholders in different settings.

In this session you are invited to examine different aspects of localization in CCCM operations and preparedness: Does the CCCM "flexible framework" go far enough? Or is more work needed on localization for CCCM to provide the necessary support required to adapt to the needs of governments, national NGOs and community structures? To be as relevant across all activities as it should be, what is required of Cluster Coordinators? How should capacity building formats change? And what does it take for us all to play our role better?

13:45 - 16:00

DAY 3: PARTICIPATION, INCLUSION AND ACCOUNTABILITY

What came first: Participation or Accountability? The terms accountability and participation are often used interchangeably, but should they be? Where do community engagement, communicating with communities and inclusion come in?

Through a moderated discussion with panelists representing different sectors and perspectives, we will try to find definitions and determine what they mean to the CCCM Cluster. Today's session will also include a marketplace, inviting participants to explore and gain more familiarity with the latest CCCM tools and guidance to enhance participation.

DAY 4: URBAN AND OUT OF "CAMP"

Over the years, the roles in which CCCM and CCCM approaches can be applied in urban and out-of-camp settings have become increasingly prominent.

This session will start off with the presentation of CCCM Cluster's position paper on Area-based Approach, followed by a round table discussion. Participants are invited to reflect on how CCCM activities and skill sets are applied to area-based approaches in humanitarian response to address some of the pertinent challenges in camp-like settings as well as dispersed contexts. Through sharing of experiences from Yemen, Afghanistan and Iraq, the session will also provide opportunities for participants to become familiar with on-going ABA operations, and join in on the planning of the ABA Working Group going forward.

DAY 5: TRANSITION AND THE NEXUS

Without proper transition or exit plan, both camps and clusters can (and often do) continue to exist in limbo until the next crisis reoccurs in the same location and setting. Even when planning is carried out with investment, challenges are inevitable when it comes to implementation.

This panel discussion asks: Do we, as humanitarian actors, put into place systems that are geared too heavily towards our own rulebook? Do we make it more difficult than it should be to handover to local actors? Is the "transition" environment the right time to ask these questions?

TUE 10
13:45 - 16:00

DAY 2: PHYSICAL ENVIRONMENT

Can the physical/congestion challenges in displacement sites be overcome through social behavioral changes in preparedness and response to COVID-19? Today's Q&A with colleagues working in health, site planning and camp management invites participants to join in reflecting on lessons learned and best practices that are currently in place in displacement sites to minimize risks and mitigate community transmission of the pandemic.

Today's breakout sessions will then offer choices for participants to explore various aspects related to physical environment vital in site management, from what camp managers know/should know about site planning, the effort to overcome site congestion in Nigeria, informal buying and renting of land and family plots in a site, to the starting up of our working group on sustainability and environmental concerns in displacement sites.

WED 11
13:45 - 16:00

DAY 7: CAMP MANAGEMENT STANDARDS IN PRACTICE

Following the development, consultation and verification process carried out for the Camp Management Standards over the past 3 years, today's session invites participants to learn how to operationalize CM standards in different contexts. The session will explore aspects related to application of the standards, from working with different actors and sectors, capacity development component, through to how measuring, indicators and accountability can be applied. The breakout sessions will include contexts such as transit centres and out of camp operations.

DAY 8: GLOBAL CCCM CLUSTER STRATEGY

This past year, the global CCCM Cluster has initiated the process of stakeholder consultations as it reflects on the strategy for the cluster going forward. In this session, participants will be consulted on the design of the CCCM Cluster strategy, reflect on the proposed 'key work areas' and prioritized activities that the cluster should undertake, as well as consider the proposed strategies in relation to external influences. The session will share progress to date and gain valuable and diverse inputs to shape the design going forward.
